Textbook: There is no required textbook for this class. Two reports will introduce you to the area and help you pick a topic for your writing. The first is a dated but authoritative set of recommendations for reform for Illinois at https://igchicago.org/wp-content/uploads/2011/03/IRC-100-Day-Report-Final.pdf. On a national level, the new report from the American Academy of Arts and Sciences will be a great starting place, https://www.amacad.org/ourcommonpurpose/report.

What you can expect to learn: Government ethics -- what a good joke, eh? Maybe so, and maybe particularly in Illinois. We will look at the development of ethical standards for governing, and how those standards work or fail in state and national government. This is a seminar, which is an amazing opportunity for us to work together. I'll provide the structure and the basics, and you get to choose the direction for your research, writing, and presentations to the class. Bottom line -- you will get to dig into an area of law that is interesting to you, polish your research and writing skills, and try to take it outside of school and have an impact. Yessss!

Attendance: Be here, whether it is in person or online. It’s part of what will make this class work. We will have some guest speakers who have great experience to draw from, and we will both present our own work and critique the work of our classmates. Class participation will be a part of your grade, so that’s another good reason to come to class. Since the class is a writing seminar, we are allowed to cancel several class sessions in order to devote more time to research and writing. Sweet.

Workload expectations: You might not have thought about how much work you will put into each class, but the American Bar Association has! The American Bar Association standards for accrediting law schools contain a formula for calculating the amount of work that constitutes one credit hour. According to ABA Standard 310(b)(1), “a “credit hour” is an amount of work that reasonably approximates: (1) not less than one hour of classroom or direct faculty instruction and two hours of out-of-class student work per week for fifteen weeks, or the equivalent amount of work over a different amount of time.” This is a three credit hour class, meaning we will spend two 75 minute blocks of time together most weeks. The rules of the school of law allow us to forego several class sessions to allow you more time for research, writing, and conferences. Overall your reading, research, writing and class sessions should take an average of nine hours each week.
Grades: Your grade will be based on the following factors:

- Class participation: 20 percent
- Outline of the first paper: 10 percent
- First paper: 30 percent
- First draft of the second paper: 10 percent
- Final draft of second paper: 30 percent

Assignments must be submitted by D2L or in person directly to me. No late submissions will receive credit unless permission has been granted in advance. Because of the small class size, grades will be assigned according to the more flexible curve for smaller classes, and grade distribution rules do not apply.

Writing Targets: Students in senior seminars at the School of Law are required to produce a paper or papers totaling 7500 words, which is about 31 pages, double spaced. I am dividing that requirement into two papers so that one paper can be short enough to be published. We’ll talk in class about publications that are good targets for your work.

D2L: Keep posted on news, assignments, any changes in the syllabus and other good stuff through D2L.

Office hours: I am a total nerd and spend a lot of time in the office, so stop by any time. Also feel free to schedule an appointment. My office has a window, and I recently improvised a screen for it -- so fresh air and no wasps! I am also happy to meet with anyone outside, online, or by phone. I won't let the virus keep us from having consistent conversation about your topics and your writing. My property class is on Monday and Wednesday afternoons, but outside of that, I’m yours.

Recording class sessions: All class sessions will be recorded and posted. My experience with the recordings is that they work most of the time. So if you have to miss something that you really want to benefit from, have a classmate take notes.

Final exam: No final exam for this class. Party on!

Stress! What stress? The University and the School of Law recognize that there are lots of potential stressors in your life. Here is some information on Saluki Cares, a campus-wide effort to be there to support you: The purpose of Saluki Cares is to develop, facilitate and coordinate a university-wide program of care and support for students in any type of distress—physical, emotional, financial, or personal. By working closely with faculty, staff, students and their families, SIU will continue to display a culture of care and demonstrate to our students and their families that they are an important part of the community. For Information on Saluki Cares: (618) 453-5714, or siucares@siu.edu, http://salukicares.siu.edu/index.html. At the School of Law, Assistant Dean Judi Ray is also available to help students access university resources. Her email is judiray@siu.edu, and her phone number is 618-453-8135.

Disabilities and accommodations: I want everyone in this class to succeed. If a disability is challenging you, here is some information about how to seek accommodations: SIU Carbondale is committed to providing an inclusive and accessible experience for all students with disabilities. Disability Support Services coordinates the implementation of accommodations. If you think you may be eligible for accommodations but have not yet obtained approval please contact DSS immediately at 618-453-5738 or disabilityservices.siu.edu. You may request accommodations at any time, but timely requests help to insure accommodations are in place when needed. Accommodations and services are determined through an interactive process with students and may involve consideration of specific course design and learning objectives in consultation with faculty. Upon completion of a Disability Accommodation Agreement with DSS, students should bring the agreements for each course to the School of Law Registrar’s Office to ensure the School of Law provides the proper classroom and examination accommodations. Accommodation request and renewal forms can be found here: https://law.siu.edu/academics/.

Tornado? Flood? We ask that you become familiar with Emergency Preparedness @ SIU. Emergency response information is available on posters in buildings on campus, on the Emergency Preparedness @ SIU website, and though text and email alerts. To register for alerts, visit: https://emergency.siu.edu/

Tentative schedule:
This is a schedule of when we will meet and when we will turn in outlines and papers. In general we will spend Mondays on substantive topics and Wednesdays on your research and writing. Reading assignments have been noted for some classes. More will be supplied as we go along. I anticipate having some guests Zoom in to our class, so that may require some flexibility in our schedule, but our topics won’t suffer from a little shuffling. Any changes to the schedule will be posted to D2L.
