Family Law

Instructor: Anna M. Vick
Email: anna.vick@siu.edu
Office: Lesar Law Building, Room 226
Office Hours: By appointment
Meeting Time: Tuesdays and Thursday; 11:00 a.m.—12:15 p.m.

Description: Family Law is the study of the relationship between the state and the family including procedures for marrying, legal relationships within an on-going family, alternative forms of families, and problems in the dissolution of the family. Special emphasis is placed on problems of child support, adoption, and divorce, particularly child custody and property settlement agreements.

Learning Objectives and Goals: I hope to create and encourage a classroom atmosphere that is open to the thoughtful exchange of ideas and in which students can discuss the readings in a manner respectful of each other's opinions. Family law issues often provoke passionate responses based upon individuals' personal beliefs and experiences as members of a familial unit. My goal is for all of you to be able to share your own perspectives and beliefs while also hearing the experiences and beliefs of your classmates. This open exchange of ideas will lead to a deeper understanding of the law.

Upon successful completion of the course, students will:

- have basic knowledge and understanding of substantive family law;
- have introductory experience in drafting common family law documents;
- have a basic knowledge and understanding of how common law principles and statutory law shape family law and have evolved over time;
- possess the ability to perform legal analysis, reasoning, and problem solving concerning family law issues, and to convey such analysis, reasoning, and problem solving in written and in oral communication;
- understand the role of lawyers in family law matters and the proper professional and ethical responsibilities that lawyers engaged in family law practice have to clients and the legal system.
- be able to think critically about family law and its role in society; and
- understand how family law interrelates with other areas of law.

Classroom Participation: This course will be most effective if the entire class takes part in the classroom discussion of the assigned reading. I expect that everyone will be prepared for class. I will always take volunteers during class, but to ensure that classroom participation is shared by all students, I will use a “panel” system for class discussion. Students will be divided up into small groups (3-5 students per group) and will be assigned specific days in which the group will act as discussion panel leaders. The group will be responsible for giving detailed answers to the questions in the textbook or questions from me as I provide the general lecture for the day. The groups will also be given time to add their own takes from the readings. I encourage you to explore topics you found particularly interesting or controversial and ignite a vibrant class discussion. Using the “Day-One Survey” when appropriate, may be a great way to spark a productive dialogue. I will assign the groups in a random manner, and they will, likely, be reshuffled after the midterm exam.

Special note on Covid and Zoom: If at some point, we are forced to return to Zoom for classes, I hope to maintain the same schedule and general flow of class. If I am forced to quarantine, I will offer class via Zoom. During Zoom classes, you will be required to have your camera on. If technical difficulties arise, we will discuss alternatives to this policy.

If you are absent from class, you can email me for a link to the ECHO recording. I do not plan to offer every class via Zoom at this point. However, if a significant number of students are out of class due to illness or quarantine, I will reassess the need for Zoom.

I ask that all of you consider the health of everyone at the law school when determining whether you should attend class or be tested for Covid. If you have symptoms, you should strongly consider staying home and seeking an alternative form of receiving the classroom instruction.

Grading: Points in this course will fall into two (2) categories: “Skills and Practice” and “Application and Assessment”. “Skills and Practice” points come from exercises meant to further your understanding of the reading materials and classroom lectures as you progress through the semester. These exercises will help you build a strong foundation of knowledge which you will then use to successfully complete the “Application and Assessment” portion of the course.

Points for both categories will be distributed as follows:

Skills and Practice Points (200 raw points or 20% of grade):

- 10 Day-One Survey Points: You will submit this survey prior to the first class. You should keep your answers available throughout the semester as we discuss topics related to the survey. The survey should be completed individually and not as a group.

- 70 Quiz points which consist of 7 Quizzes worth 10 points each: Points for these quizzes are awarded for timely completion of the quiz and not based on correct answers to the questions. All quizzes will occur during the first half of the semester. Students may work with their assigned group on the quiz, but each student must submit their quiz individually. Quizzes must be completed by 4:00 p.m. on Friday of the designated week. (For example, the Week 1 Quiz must be completed by 4:00 p.m. on Friday, January 14.) There will not be a quiz the week of the midterm exam.

- 24 Discussion Panel Points: These points will be awarded for your group’s ability to lead a vibrant and productive discussion of the reading materials assigned for the day. Each group will be assigned two class periods during the semester in which they are responsible for leading the “discussion” portion of class. Groups will be awarded up to twelve (12) points for each assigned class for a total of twenty-four (24) points. The points earned by the group will be applied to a student’s individual raw points for the “Skills and Practice” portion of their grade.

- 80 Practice Points: Practice points will consist of four (4) different drafting exercises which will occur during the second half of the semester. Each exercise will be worth 20 points.
Students will work in groups on these exercises but must turn in individual drafts of the exercises. The drafting exercise will coincide with the material we are covering in the textbook. Examples of drafting exercises which may be assigned include: a Petition for Dissolution, a Motion to Modify Parenting Time, a Child Support Calculation.

- 16 Roundtable Points: Depending on the circumstances of Covid and my ability to secure participants, a roundtable of SIU Law Alumni that are experienced family law practitioners will be invited to one of our classes toward the end of the semester. Working in assigned groups, you will come up with questions to ask the roundtable participants. Each group will be given a general topic on which to focus when creating questions. More details on this assignment will come as the semester progresses.

Application and Assessment Points (800 raw points or 80% of grade):

- 300 Midterm Exam Points: A midterm exam will be held on March 1, 2022 from 11:00 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Please note that this extends your normal class period on this date. The exam will consist of three (3) “bar exam” style essay questions and will be closed book.

- 200 WAC Assignment Points: Students will complete one “Writing Across the Curriculum” assignment which will consist of an “MPT” style question. The assignment will be completed outside of class, but under timed conditions. The due date for this assignment is April 15, 2022 at 4:00 p.m. More details will be announced as the due date approaches.

- 300 Final Exam Points: The final exam will occur on the date and time designated in the “Final Exam Schedule” published by the SIU School of Law. It will be closed book.

Attendance Policy: The School of Law Rules primarily govern students’ attendance requirements. Pursuant to those Rules, the maximum number of absences for this course is set at six (6). The sanction set out in Rule III.5(g)(iii)—a reduction in a student’s final grade of three-tenths (0.3) of a point per absence—is in effect for any student who exceeds the three permitted absences.

Workload Expectations: The American Bar Association (“ABA”) law-school-accreditation standards contain a formula for calculating the amount of work that constitutes one credit hour. According to ABA Standard 310, “a ‘credit hour’ is an amount of work that reasonably approximates not less than one hour of classroom or direct faculty instruction and two hours of out-of-class student work per week for fifteen weeks.” This is a 3-credit hour class, meaning that we will spend one 150-minute block of time together each week. The amount of assigned reading and out-of-class preparation should take you a minimum of 5 hours for each class session.

Electronic Devices: Please use responsibly. Don’t be a distraction to your fellow classmates.

Plagiarism and Collaboration: Collaboration with your panel group and fellow classmates is highly encouraged. Family law is often a very collaborative area of law and in that spirit, I encourage group work and discussion. All “Skills and Practice” assignments can be done collaboratively, but each student must submit their own assignment to receive points. “Application and Assessment” assignments must be completed individually.

General Disclaimer: Flexibility regarding this syllabus and the course will be required from both you and I. I reserve the right to modify assignments as we move through the semester. Be assured that all modifications will be done equitably and in a manner to promote learning and understanding of the law.
