

FOREWORD

It is an honor to present the 2010 Hiram H. Lesar Survey of Illinois Law. The Illinois State Bar Association and Southern Illinois University Law Journal began publishing annual issues in 1984, and have done so each summer since. The Survey of Illinois Law is not merely an academic pursuit, but designed to be an aid to attorneys in their respective practice areas. The 2010 Survey of Illinois Law covers the changes in selected areas of Illinois law during the 2009 Supreme Court calendar year. Our goal is to provide a resource that not only alerts the reader to important changes in Illinois law, but also serves as a useful research tool for those practicing Illinois law.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all those individuals who made this publication possible. The respective Section Councils of the Illinois State Bar Association assisted in identifying potential authors and provide continued support each year. The authors, who contributed their time and effort to produce excellent articles in a short amount of time, deserve a great deal of recognition. Many of the authors are recurrent contributors, and their dedication to the Survey of Illinois Law is invaluable. Frank Houdek, the Southern Illinois University Law Journal advisor, and Susan Williams, Business Manager, have been instrumental to this issue, providing support and guidance throughout the publication process. Finally, this issue would not be possible without the efforts and editorial duties of the entire Law Journal staff.

Thank you to all those who read the annual Hiram H. Lesar Survey of Illinois Law, as without its readers, the issue would not come to fruition.
