Dan Davies, Illinois Supreme Court Commission on Professionalism Director of Educational Programs

Designing for Engagement – A Hands-on Guide

Do you want to offer more than a talking head experience when delivering a course? Dan Davies shares some of the instructional design strategies he uses to gain a better understanding of what ‘problem’ his courses are trying to solve, what his audience needs are and how he can tell if the course is successful. In this hands-on session you will be simulating an instructional design process to practice some of these techniques, and have an opportunity to share your thoughts and feedback on what you generate.
